Kylie uses her high-level relationship skills, expertise in coaching psychology and facilitation prowess to co-create transformative learning experiences and build human potential.

Drawn to PF's innovative work in 2017, Kylie has quickly carved out a niche as a gifted facilitator, designer and coach who builds strong partnerships that uncover deep insight to help our clients own their journey of positive change.

Kylie is a highly skilled program designer and facilitator with a strong track record leading cultural change and leadership development initiatives across organisations such as BBC Worldwide, ABC and the Australian Film, Television and Radio School. Her work is informed by her expertise in strategy and policy, which equips her with a unique understanding of how organisations should tackle modern challenges with intelligence, agility and creativity.

As one of our key executive coaches, Kylie's warm, engaging and curious nature helps her create the conditions for trust, discovery, reflection and transformation for exceptional personal and professional client outcomes. Her expertise is supported by a Masters of Applied Science in Coaching Psychology, LSI accreditation and experience in mentoring and coaching individuals primarily within the media sector.

A self-confessed people person – Kylie is most comfortable having authentic conversations and challenging people to achieve their boldest ambitions.
