Creative provocateur and Global Changemaker, Dr Hayley Linthwaite, is a program designer, facilitator and coach with Performance Frontiers. She empowers individuals, organisations and communities through creative collaboration, social innovation and practical exploration to envision and enable a better future. Hayley has extensive experience in theories, forms, and conventions of applied performance, behavioural and systemic change, strategic conflict analysis, and experiential learning honed within extensive roles as an arts educator, researcher, director and performer.

As Associate Professor and Programme Leader for Drama at the University of Northampton UK, she designed and managed bespoke tailored programs for international tertiary arts partnerships, corporate contexts and international communities. She received the 2016 Global Changemaker Award, University of Northampton, recognising her innovative and effective Imagine A Day Project (IADP) designed and conducted to foster cross-community social cohesion and justice among young professionals and emerging leaders. The Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) Mission in Kosovo commissioned this project.

In-depth primary research and first-hand experience initiating change inform her work, including the following: Management and Leadership for Australia's Defence Materiel Organisation; Sexual Health Education within Papua New Guinea; Peace and Conflict studies in Thailand and Nepal; IADP specifically adapted to diverse working environments in Australia, Brazil, Kosovo, and the United Kingdom.

Hayley remains focused on building and sustaining peace across community and corporate sectors. She disseminates innovation and progressive processes through national and international conferences and university programs.
