Dr Hayley Linthwaite works to empower people to create change in organisations and communities through creative collaboration, social innovation and shared exploration.

Hayley is a passionate changemaker, specialising in theories, forms, and conventions of behavioural and systemic change, strategic conflict analysis, applied performance and experiential learning.

Her expertise has been honed through extensive work in Australia and parts of Europe as a corporate consultant, trainer, educator, researcher, director and performer.

In 2016, she received the Global Changemaker Award, University of Northampton, recognising her innovative Imagine A Day Project (IADP), commissioned by the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) Mission in Kosovo, successfully fostering cross-community collaboration among young professionals and emerging leaders.

Prior to joining Performance Frontiers in 2017, Hayley worked as an Associate Professor at the University of Northampton UK, where she designed and managed bespoke tailored programs for international tertiary arts partnerships, corporate contexts and international communities.

Hayley remains dedicated to tapping into individual and collective potential, supporting social cohesion across community and corporate sectors, and helping all to realise a better tomorrow, today.
